SUNDAY SCHOOL INSTITUTE TONIGHT

This evening at 7:30 in the parish house of Central Union Church, the Rev. Wm. C. Merritt, field secretary of the Northwest for the International Sunday School Association, will begin a Sunday School Institute for the Sunday School workers of Honolulu. The subject this evening will be "The Practical Grading of the Sunday School." There will be opportunity for questions at all of Dr. Merritt's meetings. It is these informal discussions of vital Sunday school problems that are really the most interesting and valuable part of the conferences.

The meeting tomorrow evening will be a union meeting of all the churches and will be held in the main auditorium of Central Union Church. Rev. Mr. Merritt will give his address on "The Sunday School Organized to Win."

Parents and all others interested in the religious training of the young should attend this meeting. No more important subject will be discussed in this city for a long time to come.

On Thursday evening will follow another conference in the parish house, and the topic to be discussed will be no less important.

Just at present Honolulu is especially interested in anything relating to "The Boy Problem."

Mr. Merritt, through a wide experience and by years of study is eminently qualified to speak on the topic.

The general public is invited to all of these meetings but all Sunday school workers of whatever denomination are urged to attend. This an interdenominational movement and aims to help all who are engaged in any form of Sunday school work.

THINKS FOUND AUTO

THAT KILLED BLOODED DOG
After enquiries extending over six days, Motor Officer Chilton has discovered who he believes to be the chauffeur who ran over a valuable dog belonging to H. M. Ayres on the Waiata road on Wednesday last. At the time it was thought that an army officer was at fault but this theory was soon exploded, and apparently there was nothing on which Officer Chilton could work.

However, after an exhaustive investigation, Officer Chilton thought he fixed the blame upon Harold Taylor, a demonstrator and salesman of the von Hamm-Young Company. The latter admitted having run over a dog, explaining that he had either to run over the dog, knock a young lady down or collide with a street car and he chose the first alternative.

With Taylor at the time of the occurrence were Jim McGuire and M. E. Silva, who were returning to town from Palolo after having been testing the car, a Hupmobile, on the hills at Palolo.

His Imperial Japanese Majesty's Aso and Soya, former Russian warships captured during the Russo-Japanese war, and now used as training ships, will arrive here from Japan the latter part of September or the first part of October.

FEDERAL HELP FOR FARMERS

BY A. J. BRECKONS.

(Special Correspondence of the Star.)
WASHINGTON, May 11.—Lack of sufficient funds is given as the reason for the failure of the department of Agriculture to establish demonstration farms on each of the islands of Molokai, Maui, Hawaii and Oahu, as originally contemplated. In place of this plan, the department has undertaken the establishment of co-operative demonstration farms on a number of large estates, with most gratifying success, according to the annual report of the Hawaii Agricultural Experiment station, just issued. The report is by E. V. Wilcox, special agent in charge, and gives interesting detailed data concerning the progress of the work.

Objection to the establishment of separate demonstration farms on the various islands, was also anticipated from the fact that such a plan would necessarily produce large quantities of products which would have to be sold in competition with those of the farmer, making the stations in a sense competitors. It is believed that the results shown on these co-operative demonstration farms will be more readily accepted and will more obviously meet the exact condition under which the farmer must labor.

The station has undertaken the supervision of certain cultural, soil and fertilizer experiments on Molokai, Maui, Hawaii and Oahu. The crops involved in these experiments were pineapples, cotton, rubber, corn, legumes, rice, sorghum and a number of miscellaneous forage crops. These experiments have all moved along smoothly, according to the report, because of the interest of each individual in bettering conditions. The co-operative work is endorsed, and will be continued on a wider scale each season.

The accounts in connection with bringing the S. S. Orteric's immigrants to Hawaii were approved.

FIERCE FAILURES OF MATRIMONY

Conjugal relations that failed in returning a due yield of sucrose content were in evidence in four cases of divorce wherein Judge Robinson this morning granted decrees as prayed for.

Mary J. Macdonald obtained a divorce from Angus Macdonald, with whom she had led a sorry life, according to her libel, from the hour of her marriage on February 28, 1910, when he gave her a beating shortly after arriving at their home. A long story of beatings and insults, public and private, follows. Once he was restrained forty-eight hours in the Honolulu police station, for the drunken fury with which he assailed his wife. Again he was placed under a $300 bond not to molest her, after which he asked to be forgiven and offered to take her to California. She complied and, when in San Pedro harbor, was assaulted by him, and when he was arrested by the San Pedro police she left him in destitute circumstances there and had to be brought back to Honolulu through the charity of friends. Different times in Honolulu are mentioned when he tried to bribe policemen and others to get her into compromising positions so that he might have her arrested.

Leonie Silva got riddance of Manuel A. Silva upon charges of extreme cruelty, consisting of foul epithets addressed to her, beating her with his clenched fist and indulging in various ingenious freak actions to make her life unendurable, until, as she declares in her libel, she had become a nervous wreck and become seriously affected with mental suffering. They were married in Los Angeles in 1895 and she left his home, but her hell, in Honolulu on August 6 last. One child was born of the marriage, a boy now twelve years of age.

The remaining two cases are Japanese. You Mikami was released from nominal dependence on her husband for support, because for some time past he had left her to depend upon her own earnings. Katsuzo Katsuki procured a severance of the legal tie that bound him to his wife, for the reason that she had struck out a path for herself in this cruel world. They came here in 1899 and about six months after arrival she without cause, as he says, wilfully and utterly deserted him.

An agreement has been filed in the divorce suit of Nellie O'Campo vs. Alfred O'Campo, whereby the woman, in consideration of certain moneys to her in hand paid by the man, waives alimony, counsel fee and costs allowed or to be allowed her in the case, and as a further consideration Alfred engages to pay to the infant child, its mother or custodian five dollars a month or a larger sum in his discretion.
